

Goals 2000 Quarterly Report IV

Project Name: 21st Century Art Museum

Project Contact: Annette Loy and students loya@ten-nash.ten.k12.tn.us

LEA: Jefferson County High School

DATE of Report :Aug. 15, 2002

1. Our project has developed as planned. We plan to continue to work toward completing all products for the project into this next school term. We will maintain a close working relationship with the museum. .
2. Working with the museum has allowed students to experience the uses of technology in a setting that supports the products of the project
3. All of the identified goals for our project have been addressed.

<http://www.k-12.state.tn.us>

Understand the visual arts in relation to history and cultures
(National Standard 4)
(history, criticism, aesthetics, production)

Subjectively and objectively assess the characteristics and merits of personal artwork
and the works of others
(National Standard 5)
(aesthetics, criticism, history, production)

Create connections between visual arts and other disciplines
(National Standard 6)
(criticism, aesthetics, history, production)

We have addressed these goals. Students have been active and invested learners in this project the collaboration process. Technology has become the vehicle for achieving our objectives.

4.. Our Goals 2000 project has allowed students and teachers to use technology to become a working part of the larger world outside the school. Students have been able to see professionals at work and to give parents and the community tangible evidence of the work of students. The products of this project give the community with a lasting record of the artists involved. Goals 2000 has allowed us to use our computer equipment to broaden student knowledge of the countless uses of technology in accessing, evaluating, creating and synthesizing information.

5. Our completed web site is now online and may be viewed at the address given.

<http://208.183.128.6/kma/index.html>