Yesterday at school my teacher walked into the classroom and placed a steel, chained-up box on the marble floor. Suddenly, the box began to jiggle!

To start with, noise was coming from deep in the box. Then, large dents in the box began to appear along with explosive banging and roaring sounds!

Soon after, the box burst open with a shower of steel and titanium! Everyone shrieked as a monstrous crocodile appeared.

What's worse, it leapt onto the teacher's fancy desk and gobbled up Jack's pet monkey alive! After doing so, it turned and lunged for one of the students! Luckily, the kid had ducked and the crocodile smacked into the wall.

In the end, everyone got out of the chaotic building safely. One question still remains, though, why did the teacher bring the box to school? Joe

One day at school, my teacher brought a mysterious box into the classroom and left!

First, the box began to move. It moved all the way across Miss Marco's desk. It suddenly jumped like a jumping bean. While jumping, it screamed. We were absolutely frightened.

Suddenly, a miniature Mr. Hermen came out! He is our science teacher. He told us Miss Marco was an alien! He also said she would shrink us with her alien shrink ray and eat us! I couldn't believe my eyes when Miss Marco walked in. She had four eyes and an enormous elephant trunk! She locked the door and pulled out a three-dimensional gun which was the shrink ray gun! We scattered.

Then, Miss Marco tried to shrink us! She grabbed Tisha and put the shrink ray on her desk. I grabbed it and shot lasers at her. To my surprise, she disappeared! Suddenly, I woke up.

In addition, I'm glad it was all a dream. Whitney

Whoa! Did that box just move?

One day, our teacher, Miss Blunburg, brought a box to school. Miss Blunburg brought an enormous box in the classroom and placed it on the floor. All of a sudden, the box started to move.

The whole class was freaking out. No one knew what was in the box. Everyone started to guess what was in the box. I heard someone say, "There is probably an alien in that box."

Miss Blunburg walked over to the box and took the lid off. All of a sudden, a hideous, slimy, green alien with four legs jumped out. Now this was strange, the alien was barking. Miss Blunburg took off the alien's head. What? It was just a mask. Miss Blunburg said that the alien was her little, tiny beagle. She also said that we were going to do a solar system project.

I'm glad the alien was only Miss Blunburg's dog. Miranda

One day at school my teacher came into the classroom, and placed a box right next to my desk! Suddenly, the box began to move!

My teacher Mrs. Yesterday came into the classroom with a rather strange looking and smelling box. It stunk like a wet dog. The box's color was dirt brown, and it was small and petite even. The letters P.U. were marked in big bold print on the side.

I was just staring at it when the box started to move uncontrollably. Actually dancing, it was doing side steps and the Electric Slide. The box even did the Tango.

Then, Mrs. Yesterday opened the box. The smell was stronger now, but now it smelled like puic. I peek in and I saw it was yesterday's luch, peanut butter and ham surprise! Yuck! Fortunatly, our principal Mr. Tomorrow smelled it and fired Mrs. Yesterday.

Fortunately, we got a new teacher who won't bring yesterday's lunch into our classroom. Her name is Mrs. Today. Now when she brings a small brown box in it will be something for today, not from yesterday. Lanna

Have you ever been invisible for a day? One morning I woke up and bam! I was invisible. I got up and ran to the bathroom to look at myself but I couldn't see anything. Wow, this is marvelous. I can do anything I want because know one can see me.

First, I go shopping, yeah! Guess what, when I walked into the store everybody stairs at he floting cloths. They float because they can only see the cloths that I pick up and not me. It was very comical. So I went to pay for the cloths. The cashier wouldn't stop stairing. It was like I put her in a trance. Then I walk out of the store I had ot run full blast. People were chasing the floating bags.

Second, I go and try to eat lunch. When I take a bite it falls right through me. So I couldn't eat until I turn back to human.

Hopefully that will be soon. I say to myself. My stomach growls I'm so hungry I say to myself. Then I start to cry but I can't because I'm invisible so that means everything else would be to.

Third, I go back home. When I walk in my mom faints from the floating bags. That made me want to cry more but remember I can't. I run to my bedroom. I look out the window and guess what I see a shooting star. I wish I were human again "I say".

Last, I go to sleep and hope I'll wake up to be human. I woke up the next morning and guess what I was HUMAN! I jumped out of bed and did a victory dance. Yahoo! I shouted. It's good to be back. Danielle

One day, I woke up and felt a little awkward in the closet. I don't know why I was in the closet, but it was weird.

That morning, I went in the kitchen for breakfast and my chair was gone. I sputtered, "Mom where is my chair?" She didn't say a word. I got very frustrated.

Then, I went to the cabinet to get a pop-tart. My brother hollered, "the pop-tarts are floating." Mom thought he was imagining things again. After I ate the pop-tarts I walked to school.

A while later, I heard my friends talking about a funeral. They pouted, "We miss Sonya, boo hoo!" I was astonished that I had past away. Then I whispered to myself, "I'm dead, oh no!"

Finally, I had realized I was a ghost and I didn't like being a ghost not one bit. I screamed, "I won't my crazy, wonderful life back!" Sonya

The day I couldn't see myself. Have you ever felt like nobody notices you? Don't feel bad for yourself!

"Nightmare, straight ahead!" One morning I was unawarely shuffling through the medicine cabinet, looking for some pimple crème. When I was done I ferociously slammed the door. I couldn't find it. Suddenly, a hard object fell from the top shelf and onto my head. It knocked me out...

"Is there a doctor in the house?" I woke up and called my mom. I heard her feet rumbling up the stairs. But then she walked right by me. I yelled again, but there was no moon. She yelled back and said that it was time for supper, and that I need to stop playing jokes on her.

"Pour flower on my head and call me a ghost." My mom thought I was playing, but I wasn't. Finally, I poured flower over my head and then she saw me. She told me to go wash off. She knew what had happened.

In conclusion, I will always, "watch" my back and my head! James

Just the other day I had a dream about a mad scientist. There was a patient on a table with straps on it. The mad scientist enjected him with a strange greenish liquid. The patient gave a scream. A couple of seconds later he was gone. But I woke up and couldn't see the rest of it. When I woke up there was a strange stinging pain in my arm. But for some strange reason nobody would notice me. Something was wrong so I went into the bathroom. I noticed I had no reflection, I'm invisible!

I thought I could have a little fun. So when my family sat down for breakfast I lefted my brother's plate. When I did that my mom passed out and my brothers stared in "awe". But it was quietly interrupted when dad screamed "it's a ghost. I knew I could pretty much do anything I wanted to since I was invisible, so I decided to skip school for that day. While I was at home mom had to go to the doctor so I grabbed a bag of salt and vinegar chips to eat while I played every game I had until mom go home. But after a couple of minutes my stomach started to create some sharp pains.

I knew at that moment I had to find a way to stop being invisible, I feared and I searched, I even looked in the fields for a hidden lab or somethin to return my everyday appearance, but I couldn't find any thing so I went home and fell asleep.

When I woke up my body wasn't invisible. I started jumping up and down and rejoicing. My brother went by and said "are you feeling all right! I was feeling better than ever. I learned a hard lesson that day that I will never forget.

Have you ever wondered what it was like to be invisible? Read on to find out. Imagine you could be invisible for one day.

Early one graceful school morning I woke up and was getting ready for school. I realized I was invisible. I panicked. I pinched myself to wake myself up but it wasn't a dream. I was horrified!

Then I came to my senses and realized I could do anything I put my mind to. I went to school and no one could see me so I put a towel over me and everyone thought it was a ghost and they evacuated the building. I went to Wal-Mart and no one could see me so I stole some toys that were too costly for my mom and dad to buy. I stole some new movies that I wanted and got some food also. Then I came home to my parents.

It was very late and my parents were worried about me and I tried to think of something to do about it. I tried calling them but they didn't answer. They were so worried. I tried writing a note to them but everything I touched turned invisible. I decided to go to bed so I layed down in my bed and I turned to normal again. I ran to my parents and they were so happy to see me.

I am so relieved to be visible again. And everything is back to normal.

Have you ever seen someone but they didn't see you? Well, imagine you were invisible for one day. What would you do?

I woke up and to my surprise, I couldn't see my body! Quickly, I jumped out of bed and ran to the mirror. I wasn't there! So I rushed down stairs to see if mom was there, so I rushed down stairs to see if mom was there, she was, but she couldn't see me! She had my breakfast made and so I went over and tried to eat it, but it wouldn't go inside my invisible mouth, after that I knew I couldn't eat today.

So, I went back up stairs to put my clothes on, but, I couldn't get my pjs off or my other clothes on! So I went to school in my pjs. The bus driver couldn't see me either, so, I had to walk. I didn't rush. I mean who could see me? When I got to school, of course no one could see me so I stood beside my desk until, someone put my seat down.

When I got home, I went straight up to my room. I didn't have anything to do, because no one could see me! I had no home work! My video game was just sitting there so I tried to play it but I couldn't hold the controller. So I decided I would watch a movie (I watched "Princess Bride" if you wanted to know).

Yes, I liked being invisible. But I wouldn't do it again. Because I couldn't eat, no one could see me. I wore pjs to school and I couldn't handle anything.

What if you woke up one morning and you weren't really there. Here is a thrilling story about my really weird day being invisible.

First, when I woke up I saw something wrong with me, which wasn't really there I was invisible! Then after that I went and had breakfast and got dressed, but I was still freaked out.

Afterwards, I went outside to see what my sisters and my mom were doing and when I did they screamed and yelled so loud that my dog heard it next door and came to see what was the matter. When she did, she ran away because she was very scared too!

Later, I went back inside to take a bath, brush my teeth, and go to bed, hoping that tomorrow I could be normal again.

When I woke up the next morning I found out that I wasn't really invisible I was just having a weird, exciting dream and I was so glad it was just a dream because I would hate going through a day like that even though I got to scare my sisters.

What if you could not be seen? If you're invisible for a day, you can't. Here is a story about a dreadful day when I'm invisible for a day.

In the beginning I woke up in my bed feeling very unusual. I could see everything but me. Quickly, I noticed I was invisible I got up not putting my clothes on and down the hall to the kitchen. I fixed myself a bowl of cereal. While I was eating my mom and dad were asleep. I went outside forgetting my backpack and waited for the bus. The bus finally came but passed right by me. I decided to walk to school.

After a while, I was on the school's yard. I went in for a day of school. I talked to my friends but they could only hear me. In the classroom while I was doing work, everybody saw a pencil moving around. After class we went outside for recess, but I decided to skip it.

Finally, I got home and layed on my bed thinking, "Will I always be like this," I got tired of thinking and went outside. I threw by baseball against the target. I got tired of that and went in to eat. I ate and then went to sleep.

The next morning I woke up and looked at myself. Thankfully, I wasn't invisible anymore. I'm glad I got past that dreadful day. Nolan

Oh no, one day I woke up to an astonishing discovery! I'm invisible! Wouldn't that be terrible.

That day was a very troublesome day. And it just so happened that it was my birthday. No one would play with me so I couldn't have any fun at all. None what so ever. My friends couldn't see me. Neither could my family so I was lonely all day.

When I went to school that was the most terrible part of the day. The teacher counted me absent. Which was awful because I've had perfect attendance for three straight years. Later on, three policemen came to the door and ask the teacher if I had came to school that day. They told her I had been missing since this morning. That day at school when the teacher would had out an assiment I would pick up my pencil to work, but every one would yell, run, and scream in terror.

After school let out because of the mishap, I moped all the way home. Once I got home I went straight to my room. Quickly, I feel into a deep sleep. Once I woke up I looked at myself, I was back to normal! I ran out of the room excitedly like. But what I found was no thrill to me. My very confused parents were both pacing back and forth crying like a baby in it's crib. As fast as I could I speeded over. It took so long to calm them but finally, I did.

Be extra careful what you wish for because some times it just might come true. And I certainly didn't like what I just had to overcome. Deana

Could you imagine a day when you got to be invisible for one day? Well, here's my story about my one day at being invisible.

First, I got up and couldn't see myself but it was very terrifying because it was weird, but it was ahd to tell if I did it good because I couldn't see myself. Then, my mom had breakfast ready and then went down stairs to eat but she didn't see me. The bad part was I almost couldn't get to the bus on time because the bus driver couldn't see me.

Then I got to school but no body seen me so, what was the huge deal of me bing there. When I got in the classroom every bod thought I wasn't there so I was absent. So, no work for me because nobody seen me. I didn't get to eat lunch because they didn't see me there so, I was hungry the rest of the day.

Finally, at the end of the day after school and after I got off the bus. I was glad to finally behome from school. I was so tired after today and so hungry I just went to bed. The suddenly I woke up at midnight to see I wasn't invisible any more.

So, as you can see, it was rough being invisible even for one day but really it was a very exciting adventure for me that day but it was a really thrilling day when I was invisible for one day. Oakley
