

Colonial America was different from life today. The clothing they wore was different from today's clothing. They called clothes they wore every day "undress" clothes. The girls didn't get to go to school because they had to stay home and clean. The people that could afford to go to school got a fantastic education. They had to plant they're own food. And it was harder than today because they worked for they're food. The men hunted deer for food. Life would be difficult to live in Colonial America.

Last Christmas I had an huge surprise. That night I heard a noise as I was sleeping. Carefully, I jumped up to see what it was. Quickly, I went downstairs. I saw a red man putting presents down. I was so afraid I jumped up. I went outside to look on the roof. When he heard me leaving the man went up the chemney. I looked back and said, "Who are you? I dicide to go back inside because I was cold. The man disappeared.

Colonial America was different from today. School was only available to the ones that could afford it. Only boys could go to school and girls had to do house work. They had polite manners. They had to put their hankerchief over their mouth if they had to cough. Farmers ahd to grow corn, barley, and tobacco. They hunted for wild game. Colonial America is a pleasant place to live.

Colnial America was much different than today. Their school was much different than today. Girls could not go but boy could. They had to see their on clothes. They dressed in undressed clothes when they play outside. They had better maners than today. When they sneezed they they had to turn their head away from people. I would not like to live in Colonial America.

Last Christmas I had a marvelous surprise. Yesterday, I heard a noise as I was playing my playstation. Quickly I jumped up to put the star on the top of the Christmas tree. Carefully I went downstairs. I saw a scary man he was getting some cand cane. I was so afraid I went to go tell mom. I went outside to yell help me help. When he heard me leaving the man starded chasing me. I looked back a the man and said, "You'll never catch me alive. I decided to go back inside becaue my mom would be woreing about me. The man ran into de car and killed himself.

Colonial America is much different than America today. They have excellent manners. Whenever someone comes in the classroom the students stand up. The people had to work hard to obtain food. The boys had to hunt and fish for food. Education was only available to boys who could afford it. Girls couldn't go to grammar school or college. I would have a hard time living in Colonial America. Kevin
